

The Diamond Stealer

It was just a normal day, sippin' coffee and watchin' T.V. when I got a phone call that said, "My store got robbed overnight!" That is where everything changed for a few months.

Hi! My name is detective Sage and I work for the CCA (Crime Catching Association) and I catch anybody from candy stealers to bank robbers to car jackers. Right now, I am driving to the CCA to get more info on the robbery. The info I got was that his name is Brock and he stole the biggest blue diamond in the world from Jack's Jewlers. The best clue was that they found fingerprints. I went to the crime scene and started investigating. We found some pretty cool clues.

At the crime scene, I found footprints and where he drove and lives. We were pretty close to finding him now so we got in a car and drove where he drove. We got to where he drove but he wasn't there. There was just a grandma in a rocking chair knitting. It was awkward because she was visually impaired and thought it was her grandson so we didn't say anything and left. There was a driveway in the middle of two houses so we went to the one next to that house and searched around but he wasn't there.

We went back to the jewelry store and he was there getting another diamond. It was funny because he got so scared and jumped back and fell right on his face. He got up and started running but he tripped so we handcuffed him up and put him in jail for stealing. He is going to be in there for eight years. He's learning his lesson alright.
